MY STORY

At 19, I wanted to secret agent and studied international security with a focus on nuclear weapons in the USA.

But my true passion lay elsewhere.

I went through stations at IMF and the World Bank venturing the leap into the professional sport- failed - and ended up in management consulting.

At 30, I was faced with a complete restart - I realized that many people struggle with similar challenges: Change, uncertainty and the fear of leaving their comfort zone.

My mission was born.
